

Governor Hickenlooper,

Too many state workers are struggling to pay basic living costs - housing, healthcare and food. Many state employees are taking on second jobs, while some have had to resort to using food banks or forgoing critical medical care. Under the State's broken pay system, employees have received raises in just six of the past twelve years.

Continuing to cut or devalue worker pay means that state employees will have even less money to spend at local businesses – and that's bad for our economy. We urge you to restore the 2.5% PERA cost shift and to reform the pay for performance system in your 2012-13 budget proposal.

Name _____ Phone (home/cell) _____

Street Address, City _____ Zip _____

Facility (where you work) _____ Position _____

Governor Hickenlooper,

Too many state workers are struggling to pay basic living costs - housing, healthcare and food. Many state employees are taking on second jobs, while some have had to resort to using food banks or forgoing critical medical care. Under the State's broken pay system, employees have received raises in just six of the past twelve years.

Continuing to cut or devalue worker pay means that state employees will have even less money to spend at local businesses – and that's bad for our economy. We urge you to restore the 2.5% PERA cost shift and to reform the pay for performance system in your 2012-13 budget proposal.

Name _____ Phone (home/cell) _____

Street Address, City _____ Zip _____

Facility (where you work) _____ Position _____

Governor Hickenlooper,

Too many state workers are struggling to pay basic living costs - housing, healthcare and food. Many state employees are taking on second jobs, while some have had to resort to using food banks or forgoing critical medical care. Under the State's broken pay system, employees have received raises in just six of the past twelve years.

Continuing to cut or devalue worker pay means that state employees will have even less money to spend at local businesses – and that's bad for our economy. We urge you to restore the 2.5% PERA cost shift and to reform the pay for performance system in your 2012-13 budget proposal.

Name _____ Phone (home/cell) _____

Street Address, City _____ Zip _____

Facility (where you work) _____ Position _____

Governor Hickenlooper,

Too many state workers are struggling to pay basic living costs - housing, healthcare and food. Many state employees are taking on second jobs, while some have had to resort to using food banks or forgoing critical medical care. Under the State's broken pay system, employees have received raises in just six of the past twelve years.

Continuing to cut or devalue worker pay means that state employees will have even less money to spend at local businesses – and that's bad for our economy. We urge you to restore the 2.5% PERA cost shift and to reform the pay for performance system in your 2012-13 budget proposal.

Name _____ Phone (home/cell) _____

Street Address, City _____ Zip _____

Facility (where you work) _____ Position _____

2525 W Alameda Ave
Denver, CO 80219

Governor John Hickenlooper
136 State Capitol
Denver, CO 80203-1792

2525 W Alameda Ave
Denver, CO 80219

Governor John Hickenlooper
136 State Capitol
Denver, CO 80203-1792

2525 W Alameda Ave
Denver, CO 80219

Governor John Hickenlooper
136 State Capitol
Denver, CO 80203-1792

2525 W Alameda Ave
Denver, CO 80219

Governor John Hickenlooper
136 State Capitol
Denver, CO 80203-1792