

Hayley Renee Boesky,
Vice Chairman of Global Markets,
Bank of America Merrill Lynch

Hayley Boesky is Managing Director and Vice Chairman of Global Markets at Bank of America Merrill Lynch, a position she has held since April 2010. In this role, she collaborates across all enterprise lines of business to deepen partnerships with the firm's highest priority clients. She also serves as a liaison with the global policymaking community, fostering connectivity on areas at the forefront of market and regulatory developments.

From 2007 to 2010, Hayley was Vice President and Director of Market Analysis at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. In that role she managed the quantitative Analytical Development unit, the Cross Market Monitoring market intelligence team, and the market outreach Buy-side and Relationship Management group. Prior to joining the Federal Reserve in 2007, Hayley was Director of Relative Value and Derivative Trading at Moore Capital Management. Hayley began her career in 1994 at Goldman, Sachs & Co., where she spent more than nine years in fixed income strategy, including as Chief U.S. Rates Strategist.

She holds a Doctorate in Astrophysics from Columbia University. In addition to her PhD, she also earned a Master's Degree in Science and a Master's Degree in Philosophy from Columbia University, and she served on the Board of the Graduate School of Arts and Science from 2000 to 2003. She studied mathematics, astrophysics and French as an undergraduate at the University of Pennsylvania.

Hayley serves on the board of the Tory Burch Foundation, supporting women's entrepreneurship and the economic empowerment of women and families. She sits on the Trustees Council of Penn Women at the University of Pennsylvania and is a member of the Penn Arts & Sciences Women in Business Alliance, providing education advocacy and serving as a mentor. Hayley is also a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.
